Why INDIA?

India is the world's leading producer and exporter of turmeric, preferred in international markets due to its ideal climate and rich agricultural background.

This natural advantage ensures the consistent production of turmeric with high curcumin content, vibrant colour, purity and superior quality, meeting the varied requirements of global consumers.

of the global turmeric production and exports is accounted by India

The country's diverse and fertile landscapes, combined with its tropical and subtropical climate, provides the perfect environment for turmeric cultivation.

The high demand for Indian turmeric reflects its reputation making it the preferred choice for culinary, medicinal, and industrial applications.

From harvest to export

At Augst Lines, we ensure that our post-harvest process for turmeric includes rigorous steps to deliver only the finest quality to our clients. We begin with thorough manual or machine pre-cleaning to remove impurities, followed by sun-drying to preserve the rhizome's natural potency. The turmeric is then polished to enhance its appearance and sorted meticulously for quality grading.

Advanced processes like de-stoning, grinding, magnetic separation, and sifting further refine the turmeric, ensuring purity and uniformity. Finally, it's carefully packed under hygienic conditions, ready to deliver premium turmeric that meets the high standards of global markets.
